ABOUT ME

I am a curious and dependable person who genuinely enjoys learning, building, and improving things not just in code, but in everything I do. I care deeply about the people I work with and believe the best results come from trust, openness, and showing up for your team.

I approach challenges with a positive outlook and see them as chances to grow. For me, meaningful work means building things that actually help people and I take real pride in following through on everything I commit to.

I thrive in environments where curiosity is encouraged, knowledge is shared, and people support each other. I am looking to contribute as a reliable, thoughtful teammate while continuing to grow both as a developer and as a person.
